

Figure S4 Allele intensity plots for examples of well-behaved SNPs. In the left panels, points are colored according to the genotype calls, with yellow and blue being the two homozygotes and green being the heterozygote; gray points were not called. In the right panels, points are colored by the inferred SNP genotypes, given the multipoint marker data and the founders' genotypes; gray points could not be inferred.